TO STRAIGHTEN OUT LOCAL BOARD RECORDS

District Board Finds in Mess—
Order and Serial Numbers Are Mixed Up.

The books of the Local Exemption Board of Ohio County are in a mess; wrong entries and general mix-up of the classification numbers abound; serial numbers and order numbers are mixed. In fact the whole thing is in a dicens of a fix. So states Mr. John F. Reading, of Madisonville, member of the District Board, who came over to Hartford to straighten matters out. Mr. Reading arrived Monday and is still at work. And he says it will be some time yet before he is through as the books are in such shape that it will require days to straighten them out. Then whose fault is it? Certainly not Chairman S. O. Keown for his affiliation with the Board was in an executive way and he did not keep the records; not Clerk W. H. Coombs for the filing and indexing are correct; then whose? If there is a fault to be found, Mr. Reading states, it was surely in the corps of patriotic young people who readily helped him Board out in the copying and arranging of the big classification list last fall. Not being trained to the meaning of serial and order numbers they have wrongly entered these on the books and as a result it makes a conglomeration, so says the District Board man, that he cannot tell heads nor tails of. Most of the trouble seems to be with the last registration. The books are made up wrong; the names and numbers entered in a wrong manner, and to straighten them out will take a great deal of hard labor and expert book-keeping. Mr. Reading says he thinks he will get the books into presentable shape but to make them entirely correct would require more time than he can give and somebody supernatural, which he doesn't claim to be.

CIRCUIT COURT NOTES.

The regular term of the Ohio Circuit Court is due to begin on March 3, but on account of the influenza ban the Clerk has been instructed not to issue for the term until further ordered. The following suits have been filed during the past few days.

Sadie Phillips Tanner sues Ira Tanner for absolute divorce and permanent alimony in the sum of $40.00 per month and for the care and custody of their three infant children. Plaintiff states that defendant abandoned her on Feb. 22, 1915 and has since refused to live with her.

Iemay Mason Mitchell sues Wilbur Mitchell for divorce charging cruel and inhuman treatment, plaintiff asks that she be granted absolute divorce from the defendant and for $20.00 per month maintenance pending this litigation and for $500.00 alimony.

C. H. Brown sues Sallie B. Jackson and the Valley View Farm Company on a lease contract asking judgment for $450.00.

Henry L. Stearns sues Emily Brown Wilcox & Co., asking for the sale of certain lands jointly owned by the parties to the action.

Sarah A. Wilson sues E. F. Morris and Pole Miles on a note for $175.00.

W. D. Gray sues S. W. Gray for the payment of two notes amounting to $140.00.

J. H. Miller sues the L. & N. R. R. and Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, asking damages in the sum of $3000.00 for overflows on his lands alleged to have been caused by the embankments maintained by the defendants.

In the cases of The Ross-Vaughan Tobacco Company against Ellis Johnson, S. J. Hussey and D. N. Havener (3 cases) which were appealed from a judgment rendered in favor of the defendants in this Court, the plaintiff filed the Mandates of the Court of Appeals reversing the judgment of this Court in each case.

Mr. William Awkley, of Mt. Carmel, Ill., is visiting his son, Kenneth, who is very ill at the home of his uncle, Mr. S. L. Whittaker, at Hefflin.

A RAT-KILLING DAY.

Like Hamelin of storied fame Hartford is becoming badly rattled. Wherever we go, ere the dawn has grown ruddy in the east, we find rat tracks and trails of their forages of the night past. The other morning one of our leading attorneys, and the only one who never ran for an office, started to his office before the break of day and on his way crossed so many rat-trails that his amazement was aroused. Like the tribe the piper chased, he reasoned, they will soon be chasing the cats, making their nests in men's Sunday hats and committing various other depredations if they are not exterminated. So said lawyer decided to declare at once for a public office. He has nominated himself official Rat-Killer of Hartford and requests the support of all Hartford citizens, regardless of political affiliations, in making this race. His earnestness in declaring for this office afforded us a suggestion. Why not have a rat-killing day? Let us have a big day off, every body take a vacation and slay the pests, poison them, murder them! Does the suggestion take or no?

NOVEL NEW PAPER.

Mr. W. H. Baize, the local merchant, has conceived a novel idea for a paper that will be devoted to the interest of his store and at the same time furnish its readers a good volume of local news and reading matter without cost for subscriptions. The first issue will come from the Herald press some time this week or next and it will be known as "Baize's Store News." Besides the boosting of the town and the stimulation of home trade, Mr. Baize will carry a column of local, and interesting information gathered from various sources. The subscription prices will be the reader's good will and every customer of Baize's store will be entitled to a copy. We hope Mr. Baize will succeed with this venture and welcome the new neighbor into the field of local journalism.

DIES OF INFLUENZA.

The most recent death from influenza in the county that we have heard of is that of Mrs. P. A. Hoover, of the Hefflin section. She died Saturday night about 9 o'clock. Mrs. Hoover, who a Hoover before her marriage, was the daughter of Gib Hoover and was about twenty-two years of age. She was the wife of P. A. Hoover. She is survived by her husband and one child, father and mother and one brother. Her little child and mother are both ill with flu. Burial took place Sunday evening at two o'clock at Pleasant Hill.

SHERIFF BRATCHER COMPLIMENTED.

Sheriff S. A. Bratcher received quite a flattering compliment Monday when the agent of the New England Insurance Company, bonding agent, audited his books and pronounced them in the best condition of any he had examined. Sheriff Bratcher has been kept busy for some time completing the collection of the county taxes and his deputies have also been at it every day. He went to Frankfort a few days ago where he made settlement.

TO BUY CHRISTIAN COUNTY CATTLE.

County Agent, W. W. Browder, accompanied by Messrs. J. E. Mitchell, of Dundee; Erk Fulkerson, of Matanzas; J. A. Caldwell, of Beaver Dam; Mitchell Render, of Beaver Dam; W. H. Rhoads, Hartford and H. M. Pirtle, Hartford, went to Hopkinsville last week to look at some thoroughbred Pole-Durham Cattle. After looking them over they decided to purchase eight head of the cattle and bring them to this county. These will be a big and helpful addition to the county's livestock industry.

Mr. Harry May returned from Camp Taylor, Thursday. He has been discharged from military service.

Mr. Estill Park, who is employed in a drug store at Central City, is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. J. B. Tappan.

THE ISSUE SUBMITTED Shall We Have Better Roads?

This question is now put squarely up to the people of Ohio county to be decided by election March 3, 1919.

Serious consideration should be given the matter of working the roads of Ohio county. There is only one sure and certain way of getting better roads and that is by putting up the money for them. Other counties get them that way, but no other way.

The present road tax to be voted on is only TWENTY CENTS on the HUNDRED DOLLARS and will relieve three thousand or more road hands from so much work right in the busy season. It will supplement the present road fund to the extent of just about doubling it. It will put our roads in good condition all over the county and will keep them that way by the use of good tools, implements and machinery so placed and used in each community as to get good results.

The tax is small and is paid in just the same manner and at the same time other taxes are paid, and it only last five years. Under the law, and by orders of the Fiscal Court EACH MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT AND EVERY ROAD IN THE COUNTY WILL RECEIVE ITS SHARE OF THE TAXES AND ROAD FUNDS.

No one man will control this money, but the best brains of the county will be called upon to apply the funds fairly and equitably in every community. The Banks, Railroads, Coal Mines, Corporations and Town Property will pay more than half of the taxes. All these concerns profit by good roads.

The tax asked for will be sufficient to widen the roads, cut many of the hills, and grade others, put the roadbeds upon better ground, crown the roads well and keep them drained and better for travel. The roads are put to much greater and heavier uses now than in former years. Old methods simply fail to meet the requirements. Proper methods of road work have to be paid for.

Truly an emergency exists that ought to lead you to vote "YES" on the road tax question. We mean nothing but business and an absolutely square deal to the people of the county in the matter of keeping up a good road system for every community.

We expect, by calling upon the brains, the good sense and sound judgement of thinking men all "see the county to establish a system of roads that will put the products and resources of Ohio county in position to be marketed with convenience and dispatch and at reasonable cost. This is a fair, square proposition of development and betterment.

We respectfully submit it for your favor,

OHIO COUNTY FISCAL COURT.

FROM JAMES E. PLUMMER.

Well I have sure done some traveling in the year of 1918. I have been in nine different states and four foreign countries and still about five thousand miles from home. I have also spent part of my time dodging sub-marines and shells, but that is a thing of the past now and I am not sorry either.

We have been following the Dutch ever since the firing ceased. We have hiked four or five hundred kilometers. We were the first to cross the line. We crossed the line December 1 at 7 a. m., the Rhine December 13 and reached our destination December 15, where we have been guarding the line ever since. Some nights are a little uncomfortable walking guard when it is snowing down your shirt collar. But when we come off guard now we don't have to dig a small grave to sleep in and no one hollering, "Put out the fire and air plane up."

We boys received some nice presents from our officers this morning. They are sure fine officers too.

We have about four inches of snow on the ground and still snowing. The people of this town are sure nice to us soldier boys, but we are going to leave on the 27th. Don't know where we are going.

I hope it will not be long until we board the ship again, which I don't think is many months off. I would sure enjoy a letter from you folks in old Ky. I haven't received a letter from any one, dated later than September 13th. Our mail hasn't been able to keep up with us since. Don't even know where any of my brothers are or any one else. Will close wishing all my old friends a Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year.

JAMES E. PLUMMER.

WRITES MOTHER FROM GIBRALTER.

Dearest Mother:

Was over in Gibraltar yesterday from 1 p. m. until 10 p. m. Went to the Y and wrote two letters and then rambled around the great rock. At the base of it is one of the prettiest parks I ever saw. All kinds of flowers were in bloom and all the people in Gibraltar must have been there. The population is mostly Spanish. They won't look at an American, especially a sailor. Some of the prettiest girls I ever saw and it seems strange to us that they won't notice us, for in New York and France we had a grand time.

Sunday about 7:30 250 American Red Cross nurses from France landed here enroute to New York. Believe me it sure did drive away all blues to see American girls.

Instead of having ice cream parlors here, they have tea and coffee rooms. The streets are so narrow that the only traffic is, small two wheeled carts. Haven't seen but three or four automobiles and most of them belonged to the U. S. Base.

Most of the American ships have left here and we are with three others of the same type, doing messenger duty between different ports. We get this duty on account of our speed. We can make 40 miles per hour and that is some speed for a ship. I am sure we conveyed some of the ships that boys from home were on, as we were out with some of the largest and fastest transports between October 15th and November 7th. Have some awful pretty silk from India for you, Rowena, Joyce, Laura and D. V. It would cost almost twice as much in the states and India silk is rather scarce there. We are expecting to go across the equator soon. We are right at the base of the only rock of its kind in the world and in fifteen minutes I can be in Africa chasing a wild lion or down in Turkey after a Xmas turkey. Must send you a picture of some of the Turks, if I can get one at the studio.

We are expecting the British to take a gang of us boys up to the highest part of the rock Sunday.

It is about three hours climb, but they have glasses that you can see for miles with. It is an opportunity that very few people get. I have a piece of rock that came off of a column from the ruins of Lepid. Just noticed a small corner that looked loose and when they were not looking I knocked it off. Must close for this time.

Lovingly,
LONIS A. ROWE.

WRITES FATHER

Dear Father:

Just a line to let you know what a fine time I am having. I will take back all I have ever said about France and will now say that it is a fine country. I am seeing more this week and having a better time than I have ever had before. Gardens, oranges and etc., are plentiful. Also you can pick your own oranges if you want to. I have been here four days and have four more to stay. I am going from here to Marseilles, then to Lyons, Paris, Nancy, then back home to Verdun. It takes four days to ride that far without any stops. So I guess it will take me at least six any way. When this trip is over I am ready to come home. Don't think it long before we will sail. Twenty-four of our men are coming right away. My hotel here is built facing the sea and is about seven or eight stories high. The room I have is fine. Good bed, chairs, bath and etc. I don't get up until nine or ten o'clock. Then eat breakfast at the Y. M. C. A. It certainly is a nice place. Built out into the sea on stilts.

General Pershing was here today and I was lucky enough to see him. I think he is going to Monte Carlo today and I am going tomorrow. You know that is one of the main places of the world.

Could tell you about lots of other places I have been, but the words are too hard to spell, so will bring home pictures of them. How is every one at home and how are you getting along. Hope you are enjoying life as well as I am. If so you can't kick. Any way I had rather be at home. Give every one my best regards and write soon to your boy.

SERGT. H. L. COLYER.

A GOOD ROAD IN OHIO COUNTY.

No, the above is not a fact, but indeed, a possibility. What would you think of a really good road all the way from your home to your school, your church, and your principal place of business? All such roads can be made good, none need be slighted.

It was partly because men of advanced years and considerable experience testified before the Fiscal Court that in all their lives they had never been able to travel fifteen miles in any direction from their homes in Ohio County all the way over a good road, that it was thought proper and in fact, necessary, to call an election to vote upon the question of a twenty cent road tax. These men were good citizens of Ohio County, and were testifying out of their experience.

The question of good roads in Ohio County is not altogether a question of money to pay for them. Surely, in the more than one hundred years of the existence of Ohio County some man or set of men would have been produced, who could make and keep up some good roads in the county. If such could be done by men alone.

But the experience of these more than one hundred years has taught that it is not a matter of men but of system, and a good system takes money. If the money is put up there will be good men found to spend it wisely and well. Such men there are in the county, and plenty and they will be given the opportunity. A good system properly financed is bound to get good results.

A good road is an investment that pays high interest. The price of every piece of land in the county depends largely upon the roads. Every community where there are good roads receives a generous share of profits from persons passing through and at the same time, such communities have an outlet for their own use and benefit. With the right of way cleaned off, with the hills graded, with the roads widened, crowned up and kept well dragged and drained, and with the bridges and culverts fixed and kept in a good state of repair, verily, Ohio County would be a better place to live.

Vote the road tax. Do your own duty toward the roads in your community, and all these things and more, can be done.

LOSES CRIB BY FIRE

Quite a loss was incurred by Mr. W. H. Collins, who lives on the pike between Hartford and Beaver Dam, last week when a crib which was filled with corn caught fire in some unknown manner during the night and burned before he could save any of it. Mr. Collins was awakened early in the morning by the barking of his dog which was chained in the crib and rushing out found it was on fire. He rescued the dog but saved none of the contents of the crib. About 350 bushels of good corn, several farming implements and a buggy was lost. It all amounted to a considerable sum but we have not ascertained the amount of Mr. Collins' loss.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindnesses to us during our recent illness and the death of our two children, Hecker and William Arnold. May God's richest blessings attend each and every one of you is our prayer.

What Tennessee Merchant Thought and What it Thinks.

The writer was walking along our main business thoroughfare this morning when he saw a friend, a merchant, standing nonchalantly in front of his store. Bantering him the newspaper man suggested that an ad in THE LEAF-CHRONICLE would put him behind his counter. The merchant replied:

"Yes, I know that—but I don't want to kill myself working. I like to get out here once in a while and enjoy the ozone, see the blue sky and hear the pigeons coo, and look here, Bill, I've been thinking that I really ought not to have to advertise so much. I've been here in at this same stand, I've handled business for.... years. I've been in the same merchandise all that time. I sell only reliable goods. I've treated the public fair and square. Now they know all about me and when they see they know they can come right here and get it. Now, isn't that correct reasoning?"

"Well, my friend," said the newspaper man, "I can't stop right now to show you the fallacy of your logic, for I must go to the office to look after the advertisement of another old-timer, a sure-enough old timer, who recently celebrated her fiftieth anniversary in business. I am, namely, THE COURIER-JOURNAL. We know THE COURIER-JOURNAL, its achievements in the past, its steady progress with the forward march of time and events, and yet when the Old Lady wants to get far-reaching results she gets them by the quickest, surest route, by ADVERTISING. And when she wants to reach this section, she advertizes in THE LEAF-CHRONICLE, another leader, if in a smaller way, in the progress and welfare of the community it serves. Watch THE LEAF-CHRONICLE to-day. It is not a 'country' ad., by the way but it is paid for in cash, at our established card rates, without suble or suggestion. Well, after all I did stop long enough to give you an answer to your question, didn't I? But, so long."

"Hey, wait a minute, Bill. I just want to tell you I'll see you in the morning about another contract, believe mine's about out, isn't it? You darn journalists can always upset all my comfortable reasoning and you sure do put a fellow to work."

IN MEMORY

In memory of Frieda Mehl Duval, the four year old daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Duval, of Beaver Dam, who left her parents and grandparents the 11th of January 1919 to go and live with Jesus who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for such is the Kingdom of Heaven." She died of pneumonia. Her remains were laid to rest at Sunny Side cemetery. Funeral services by Rev. E. S. Moore at the Methodist church where she received infant baptism by Rev. L. M. Russell at the age of six months. She bore her suffering so patient and sweetly. She was an unusual bright and intelligent child for her age. She always said her prayers and returned thanks at the table. Now she is a bright little angel in heaven, awaiting our coming, but the days are so lonely and empty now.

A precious one from us has gone. A voice we loved is still. A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled. We loved this tender little one and would have wished her stay, but let our Father's will be done. He shines in endless day.

GRANDMOTHER T.

Mr. Willie Wright, of Seebree, is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. E. Smith. Mr. Wright is the son of Rev. W. B. Wright, now deceased, who was formerly pastor of the Christian church here.

Mrs. Randall Collins visited her daughters, Miss Kennedy, who is in school at Bowling Green, and Miss Lurene, who is employed at Greenville last week.

CHAPTER

MERLIN MEETS A SURPRISE.

The next morning he again started out upon his quest. This time it was not with the same sense of assurance and certainty that the day before had filled him with boldness. But it was with a firmer determination that make his features almost Stoical as he swung down the street, block after block, into the heart of the city. After he reached the business section he purchased a map and guide of the city with which he would be able to locate the newspaper offices. This he consulted and found there were yet five he had not visited. Moreover he found to his satisfaction that they were all in a row along one street and less than a half mile apart. He was on that street now. Scanning the numbers he decided that the large building on the corner in front of him must be the Courier. So, folding the map and placing it in his pocket he crossed the street and entered the building.

He was greeted by a young man of dapper appearance and with snapping black eyes, who asked what he could do for him.

"I am looking for a position," said Merlin, "and if you have anything open—"

"Oh," said the young man quickly, "You'll have to see Mr. Porter, the managing editor. You will find him in there," pointing to a door.

Merlin again entered the sacred sanctum and approached the editor's desk. The editor, who seemed to be absorbed in an article he was writing, did not turn as Merlin entered. He was a broad-shouldered man with wavy iron-gray hair, and had a striking appearance. Merlin gathered this much at the first glance. Also the fact was again brought before him that editors were as a rule old men or men of middle age. Associate editors were usually well along in years and young men were usually assistants.

The editor finally laid aside the written pages and reached for some more paper. Merlin at once seized the opportunity to make his plea. Advancing quickly he stepped between the editor and the paper-box and began introducing himself while the other stood speechless with wonder and indignation. Several times he attempted to say something but each time Merlin intercepted him while his own story flowed on. At last he concluded and asked the old editor very kindly if he could not place him on the staff.

"Staff hell!" roared the editor, and I am sure we Chicagoans appreciate it," the editor said with The idea of putting you on my staff! Now here you have been, for the last twenty minutes, standing between me and my paper box, with my best editorial unfinished, the forms nearly ready to close and the compositors cussing me down below! I had some fine ideas for that editorial but you've knocked them all out of my head telling me of your hopes and dreams. Damn your dreams! They were nightmares to me. I'm not a person to listen to such tommyrot. Go tell it to some ninny of a girl who will listen to it. Don't bother a business man who is doing the work of the world. And now get out of my office!" He pointed to the door.

"Wait a minute," said Merlin. "I want to take you by the hand for one thing then I'll go."

The editor's face brightened. This youth had been impressed by his speech. He extended his hand which was grasped warmly by Merlin.

"And now may I ask what it was you wished to shake my hand for?"

"Certainly. For being the most sophisticated old reprobate in the city of Chicago."

"You damned reascal!" cried the enraged editor, aiming a kick at Merlin, who jumped through the door just in time to avoid it.

He came out into the street in a very unpleasant mood. The light of anger danced in his eyes and the hot blood mounted to his cheeks, making them scarlet. For some time he stood in front of the building, undecided as to where he would try next. His first attempts had failed disastrously that morning for he had failed to secure position and had come near carrying away the print of an editor's foot. Still it only nerved him to try harder.

After a few moments hesitation, during which his anger cooled considerably, he approached the next nearest plant, which happened to be the NEWS. It was a new building and one of spacious proportions. He entered the front door boldly and came face to face with the editor, a tall middle-aged man with a grim and sober countenance.

"Alright, young man, something?" he asked as Merlin entered.

"Yes, sir, I am looking for a position and came in to see if you had an opening on your staff."

"Where are you from?"

"Kentucky—Devondale, Kentucky."

"Uh-uh, and how large is Devondale?"

"Oh, it has a population of, I suppose, a thousand. Not quite so large as Chicago but a much cleaner place."

"You are quite complimentary."

"Staff hell!" roared the editor, and I am sure we Chicagoans appreciate it," the editor said with evident irony. "Now what educational qualifications have you and what personal characteristics that would cause you to succeed in the vocation of journalism?"

"Well, in the first place," Merlin began, "I am a graduate of Devondale Academy, one of the foremost institutions in the South for elementary training. I took a special course in English and made a special study of the classics. I contemplated a journalistic career. In the second place I have all the requisites of a journalist—natural ability, keen observation and an irresistible ambition to rise. In all my dreams—"

"There, that will do," cried the editor, throwing up his hand. "We have had a few of the irresistible kind here. They are the kind that advise the editor the first week, kick him out and assume control the second. However, I do not say that you will be that way. But in regard to Devondale Academy—where is it located?"

Was it possible! Here was a man who had never heard of Devondale. Merlin had thought, when cheering the home team or yelling for an oratorical contestant, that these rah! rah's must at least reverberate around the world and come back in swelling echoes, laden with the glory of Devondale.

"Why," he answered, "it is located there at home—in Devondale. And where is Devondale?" asked the editor absently.

"It's down in Kentucky. Don't you know I told you a few minutes ago where it was located?"

"I believe you did," said the editor and then driving direct at the question: "What position could you fill on our staff?"

"Well, I could ably fill the associate editor's place or might make a star reporter. I would be very glad if you could use me."

"Ho! ho!" said the editor as he turned laughing to his desk, "No, young fellow, we can't use you."

"Just wasting my breath for nothing," snapped Merlin who was beginning to grow discourteous of late.

"Don't do it then, you blasted rebel!" This was in a loud voice and made Merlin so mad he slammed the door with a bang.

The next one he interviewed was a very old man who was deaf and to whom he had to shout his plea at the top of his voice. When finally his story was delivered—whiten, delivered in a loud oratorical voice, had set all the office force laughing—the old man frankly told him that this was a newspaper office and not a stump speaker's rendezvous; that oratory had played out everywhere except in Kentucky and journalism had taken its place as the predominant agency in shaping the world's destinies; and lastly, that he did not want him, would not have him, and would be glad if he would leave the office as he was keeping the assistants from their work.

Crestfallen and angry, Merlin left the building. The idea of his being thus insulted by men so far his inferiors intellectually, was galling to him. His pride had been touched to the quick. Journalism was the controlling factor in shaping the world's destiny. He wondered if this were true and if men like the one he had just interviewed were really at the helm of the Ship of State and had the power to plunge the nation into war or sacrifice honor as their selfish greed might dictate. He was a member of the National Guard and could picture himself being led away to repel an invasion—to die perhaps all for what had been provoked by the vile and vitriolic utterances of the jingo press. He was fast losing faith in the loftiness of his chosen profession. Perhaps journalism was not the ideal career he had always pictured it; perhaps the active and beneficial life he had planned and the dreams he had dreamed were only illusions; perhaps he would be little the worse off if he failed to land the associate editor's place at either of the two offices he was now about to visit.

FOREST TALES.

(By Orville Weller.)

The house where Reddy Fox lived was in a dark wood. Really, it was no house at all, but instead, a hole under a big cliff. To be sure it was not so fine a home as the ones they had left, but nevertheless it was home to Reddy and his wife, Grey, and they loved it very much. Reddy had married his cousin and together they had gone out, "away from our kinkfolks where no one will bother us and cause us trouble." Grey had said and selected the big cliff for their home.

For neighbors they had all kinds of animals smaller than themselves, but being wise to the ways of a fox, they made it a rule to avoid meeting Reddy and Grey, and in time the foxes grew very lonely.

The wisest and least friendly of all their neighbors was Peter Rabbit, a wise old rabbit indeed. His hatred for Reddy was great. Although it had been months since this very old fox had killed and eaten one of his brothers, Peter had not forgotten it, and had secretly planned to kill him the very first chance. And now another thing happened which made Peter more angry than ever: Reddy and Grey gave a supper in their new home for their friends, no of course, Reddy had to go out and kill the food for their supper. He had hunted all day and was coming home with an empty bag, when all at once he heard a loud thump and looking up, saw an old rabbit speeding away. Reddy saw at once she was lean and unfit for food, so he gave no chase. But smelling around and finally going to the place where Molly Cottontail had run from, he found a bed of four young rabbits. At last he had found food for their supper! With his long fangs he soon killed them and carried them home to Grey to dress for supper.

Molly Cottontail was wild with grief. With streaming eyes she returned to her bed and waited for Peter, her husband to return. At last he arrived; and when Molly told him her sad story his hatred for Reddy grew intense, and together they plotted all night to destroy all the foxes, and especially Reddy and his wife Grey.

Hartford Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend

Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room for doubt. Read the public statement of a Hartford citizen:

R. L. Dever, proprietor grocery store, Union Street, Hartford, says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a good kidney medicine. My kidneys have bothered me and my back has troubled me with a dull mean-ache. Doan's Kidney Pills have always relieved my back and regulated my kidneys and I am glad to praise them."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Dever had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Advertisement.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

Allen's Foot-Powder, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath. The Plattsburg Camp Manual advises men in training to use Foot-Powder in their shoes each morning. It prevents blisters and sore spots and relieves painful, swollen, scurrying feet and takes the sting out of corns and bunions. A certain relief for sweating, callous, tired, aching feet. Always use Allen's Foot-Powder to break in new shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c.

THE SAVING NAME.

(By J. W. GREER.)
OWENSBORO, KY.

"Neither is there salvation in any other name, for there is none other name under Heaven, given among men, whereby ye must be saved."

"Acts, 4:12. Owing to the fact that ill health and prevailing conditions has kept me from meeting with my churches in Ohio County for some time, and believing my brethren would appreciate hearing from me, I take this method of addressing a short article to my audiences. The above verse of scripture we have selected as a solid rock upon which we will build our argument. From the time man first sinned and brought the penalty of death upon him, he has had said, 'The seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head and he shall bruise his heel.'—Gen. 3:15. This seed of the woman and fulfillment of this prophecy was Christ. There never was a sin forgiven except through Him. Some might ask the fate of those who kept the Law or Moses and died before Christ was born. My answer is, 'They died in faith not having received the promise' (Heb. 11:13). The promise was the remission of sins through Christ. The Law could not make free from sin. Read Hebrews, 10th Chapter, 1st Verse: 'For the law having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things can never with these sacrifices we offer year by year, make the comers thereunto perfect. For then would they not have ceased to be offered? Because the worshippers once purged should have had no more conscience of sins—for it is not possible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins.' The law required a yearly sacrifice, Christ died but once. 'By the which we are sanctified through the offerings of the blood of Jesus Christ once for all.' Heb. 10:10. It was necessary for Him to offer Himself but once for, 'After He offered himself for sin once, forever sat down on the right hand of God' Heb. 10:12. The Mosaic law required a sacrifice which rolled back the sin each twelve months. All of which shows there is no remission of sins except through Christ. His is the only name by which you can be saved, and all who accept Him, though they be as far apart as Pleiades and Orion are one in the sight of God. They are members of the Divine family with One Father and One Elder Brother. They can 'sit together in Heavenly places' for they are lively stones in the building which 'fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord.' Eph. 2:21. For the name of Christ—the saving name—martyrs have died and princes yielded up their thrones. It is more dear to me than all the pearls of the ocean or the gold of Ophir.

Behold a great king seated on his throne. Before him is one of God's humble servants who had been preaching the resurrection of the dead through Jesus Christ. For this he was put on trial for his life. We see that he has passed the meridian of life's fitful journey and his hands bear the marks of toil and hardship. His wrinkled brow bears evidence of a deep and fathomless mind guided by the Allwise, the Unseen, the Omnipotent. He makes a step toward the king and we hear the clang of chains. A death-like stillness pervades the assembly. Every eye is upon him, every ear open, every heart fluttering with expectancy. Hark, he speaks and he says, 'I think myself happy. O king Agrippa, to be permitted to speak for myself.' He continues his defense, holding up the glorious promises of the sweet-smelling Savior. The king grows restless and exclaims, 'Paul, almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian.' But he did not. Like many others he would not bend his stubborn will to obey his sovereign. To be a Christian, a follower of Christ, whose name bringeth salvation, is the greatest, the most holy and the most sacred privilege of man.

America's Tin Industry.

While the United States has attained a commanding position in the tin plate export trade, it by no means equals that which England had before the war. Data show that while our exports of tin plate have grown from 57,500 tons in 1913 to more than 233,000 tons in 1917, they even now are less than 50 per cent of England's before the war, and only 35 per cent more than that country's present exports.

Will this country ever have a tin industry of its own? asks the Philadelphia Inquirer. The American tin-melting industry is still in the childhood stage. Ore supplies in Bolivia, in South America, are believed to be large, but Bolivian producers are finding conditions here unsatisfactory for doing business. Only the future can tell whether any relief is possible from this source.

WILLINGLY GAVE UP WEALTH

Dr. Remsen, Discoverer of Saccharin,
Was Satisfied That Its Use Was Injurious to Health.

A romantic history is attached to the discovery of saccharin. The discoverer of the chemical derivative of coal tar, to which the name saccharin is popularly given, is Dr. Ira Remsen, chief consulting chemist of the United States department of agriculture.

He was at first very enthusiastic as to the possibilities of this artificial sweetstuff, which has a sweetening power about 500 times that of sugar. Its manufacture was organized on a large scale, and soon enormous quantities were being used in making ice-cream and the soda water sirups to which Americans are addicted.

Doctor Remsen was making an income of something like $100,000 a year from his shares in the company when about five years ago his friend, Doctor Wylie, head of the United States pure food bureau, suggested a doubt of the wholesomeness of saccharin.

Doctor Remsen thereupon submitted himself to rigorous tests of the action of saccharin on the digestive organs and on the heart. As a result he asked the department to issue an order prohibiting its use as a food-sweetener.

FROM EVE TO MODERN DAME

Evolution of Feminine Attire From the Simple Fig Leaf Is Most Interesting Study.

When Eve first started out to dress to cover up her nakedness, she picked the fig leaves soft and green—admired, perhaps their dusky sheen. But soon her daughters found this shade quite unbecoming to a maid with tresses neither gold nor red; so substituted grass instead, which made them yellow skirts when dried, and fastidiously primeval pride. And then the blondes found peacock blue was quite their most becoming hue, and robbed that bird of plumage rare to decorate their sunny hair; while raven locks of the brunettes were strung with bright red featherettes.

From beasts they took both fur and hide, and still their wants were not supplied; they found the silk worm at his loom, at which his business took a boom; they sheared Angora sheep and goats to make therefrom their winter coats.

From fields of cotton and of flax came fabrics to adorn their backs; and now to Hooverize on waste, they've spider webs with headwork traced! Eve's modesty is quite forgot—we've evolved such a lot.—Mrs. V. W. S., in the Kansas City Star.

Adventure in Fiction.

In each army Y. M. C. A. building in the training camps of America there is a circulating library of books provided by the American Library association, and one of the duties of the secretary is to see to the circulation of the books among the soldiers.

In a Y. M. C. A. building at Camp Forrest a bright-faced young soldier leaned against the counter and earnestly inquired, 'Have you got any algebra books?'

The secretary, delighted at this manifestation of interest in higher things, scanned the book shelves.

'No, my boy,' he replied, 'I'm sorry to say that I haven't. I have several arithmetics, but not a single algebra. Will anything else do?'

'Oh, give me any good book of adventure,' said the boy.

And presently the secretary recovered sufficiently to realize that the soldier wanted a book by Horatio Alger, and selecting 'Pluck and Luck, or From Porter to President,' he sent the applicant on his way rejoicing.

Vision of an Empress.

Has anyone taken time to think of Empress Eugenie, widow of Napoleon III, just at this time? Nearly half a century ago she saw her France overthrown and outraged and humiliated and the terms of the humiliation laid down in her own beautiful palace at Versailles by booted and spurred German insolence. She saw her husband dethroned to die in exile. Later she mourned the death in battle under an alien flag of her only son, disinherited.

The dim eyes of the old woman, who has known so much of pomp and pride and humiliation and exile, will now see the authors of her undoing stripped and bending with bowed head before the high court of civilization and without an extenuating circumstance to plead.

Surely a fitting and dramatic close to an historic life.

Curious Coincidence.

The news of Germany's surrender came midway between Sunday night and Monday morning. It was on a Sunday morning that the world heard of Germany's declaration of war against Russia. Serbia's answer to Austria's ultimatum came the previous Sunday. It was on Sunday morning that we got the news of the firing of the first gun of our Civil war and it was on Sunday that Lee surrendered at Appomattox. Later on, the first tidings of the sinking of Cervera's fleet at Santiago came on Sunday morning, as did that of the signing of the peace treaty between the United States and Spain.

Sudden Thought.

'I don't suppose prohibition would do in the allied armies.'
'Why not?'
'How could they have got along without the tanks?'

OHIO COUNTY FISCAL COURT.

REGULAR TERM, JANUARY

23RD, 1919.

On motion of Esq. Q. B. Shown, it is ordered that the question of voting a tax of the sum of Twenty (20) cents on the One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars worth of all property subject by law to local taxation, under section 157 a, of the Constitution, for the improvement and construction of the public roads and bridges, of the county, be submitted to the voters of Ohio County. Said tax to be levied each year for five consecutive years immediately following said election.

The taxes to be collected and accounted for by the Sheriff, at the same time and in the same manner and by the same process, that he collects other taxes, and an election is hereby ordered to be held throughout Ohio County, in all the voting precincts therein, on the 8, day of March, 1919, upon the proposition of whether or not a property tax of Twenty (20) cents on each One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars worth of property in Ohio County, shall be levied for five (5) consecutive years next immediately following said election, including the year 1919, for the purpose of improving and constructing, either or both, the roads and bridges of the County.

Said election to be advertised, held and conducted in the manner and according to the several provisions and requirements of the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, now in force governing such elections and under the general election laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, where same relate and apply to elections held to determine the above question, and no amount of money, in excess of the amount that can be raised by the levy in any one year shall be expended in that year.

S. A. Bratcher, Sheriff of Ohio County, Ky. is hereby appointed, ordered and directed to advertise, the time and purpose of the election and the amount of taxes to be levied each year and the number of years for which it is to be levied and collected as aforesaid, in the newspaper published in Ohio County, having the largest circulation for thirty (30) days before the said elections and the said Sheriff will cause a poll to be opened in each and all the precincts in and throughout Ohio County, on the named date, as the law in such cases directs, and he may advertise said election by having a certified copy of this order published, as above directed, and W. C. Blankenship, Clerk of the Ohio County Court, is ordered and directed to furnish said Sheriff with a certified copy of this order, as it appears upon the Order Book, in time for said publication.

The said Sheriff and County Clerk are further ordered and directed to do and perform each and every thing required under the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, in advertising and conducting such election and in the preservation of the ballots and the canvassing and certification of the votes and said election is directed to be held in all respects as required by law governing such elections.

It is further ordered that it is the sense of this court, in the event said election results in favor of the levy and collection of such tax, as aforesaid, the money thereby derived shall be so used and apportioned as that in each Magisterial District of the county there shall be used the sum derived, as aforesaid, in such district, for improving and constructing either or both, the roads and bridges therein, from said tax, though this shall not in any way restrict or impair the expenditure of other lawful funds in each respective Magisterial District, for said purposes, just as funds are now and have heretofore been used so far as such funds may be necessary and available and in the manner provided by law, and that a more adequate and effective method of working the roads be put in operation than is now in effect.

Ayes and nays being called for, resulted as follows. B. F. Rice, Yes; W. C. Daugherty, Yes; G. W. Rowe, Yes; Q. B. Shown, Yes; B. C. Rhoads, Yes; J. M. L. Stevens, Yes; Ed Shown, Absent and W. S. Dean, Absent. Motion carried and so ordered.

DON'T THROW AWAY
Your Old Tires

Conserve and Help Lick the Kaiser

THIS is to show you why "DRI-KURE RETREDING" with a 3,500-mile guarantee will save you one-half to two-thirds on your tire bill.

"Dri-Kure Retreding" is a proven factory method—not the old "kettle" process that soaks the carcass of your tire with steam, that, when cold, turns to water and rots the fabric.

"Dri-Kure" method is operated by DRY HEAT under 3,000 pounds pressure. The mere fact that racing drivers use tires cured by the Dri-Kure Process is proof that we build our treads for service.

Tom Alley, Chicago racing driver, averaged 104 miles per hour for 100 miles at Chicago Speedway, June 22, 1918, without a tire change and all on Retreded Tires. There's a reason.

Now Compare the Cost and Saving

Compare the cost of the tire you have on your car now and the cost of Dri-Kure Retreding, the same size. The chart of prices will show you the cost of retreding.

Now Figure the Saving for Yourself and remember that every tire we retread is guaranteed for 3,500 miles. Is this saving worth while? Think it over. Who wouldn't want to save from one-half to one-third of their tire bills?

We will gladly show you the complete detail and extend to you a personal invitation to come in for a chat. We will prove to you the success of this process to your own satisfaction.

"MARSE HENRY."

Henry Watterson, editor emeritus of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is approaching his seventieth birthday. On his natal anniversary we can but extend to "Marse Henry" the happiest returns of the day. We don't call him Mr. Watterson, as we would a younger and less conspicuous contemporary; we want to use the old appellation that was a term of endearment that the plantation slave employed when speaking of his beloved master. For "Marse Henry" is really the master of us all—the younger journalists who have followed in his illustrious footsteps. He is rightfully the dean of American editors.

No other such an age has ever moved, like a shadow, across the plane of human history as that through which Henry Watterson has lived and written. He has seen the rise and fall of nations, the crumbling of principalities, the thunders of war, the lightning of the swift-avenging sword; he has heard the rumblings of the discontented masses and the whirlwind of indignation as the substrata of society burst the accumulated crusts of age-long customs and conventionalities; and amid all the chaos and confusion he has stood, stalwart as a wave-beaten rock, battling for the principles of true democracy, the foundations of which are anchored only in individual liberty. With his fearless pen, like a prophet's rod, he has warned America of the approach of dangers or the insidious intrigues of enemies within the gates. "Watchman, what of the night?" we cried back in 1914, when the European war-cloud was yet but a filmy scroll on our horizon. His prophetic warning came forth and time has proven its potency and truthfulness—"To Hell with the Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns!"

If there is anything we admire most in the man it is his fearlessness and sincerity. He is not afraid to call a spade a spade, ignoring his critics and spurning the counsel of others, he takes a position and abides by it. And he is usually right. May he be blessed with health and strength to give voice to the sentiments of democracy for many another year.

We were in three sections of the county last week and in all parts where we have visited there seems to be a widespread opposition against the flu ban. The indignation at Fordville is strong and in many other places the people seem to be "up in the air" over the proposition. They cite the fact that in all the larger cities the ban was placed on at first and failing to crush the epidemic was lifted and when the disease became general the second time was not attempted. We do not know what logic there is for or against as the medical profession fails to agree as to whether the malady is strictly contagious or not; and who shall decide when doctors disagree? It is not within our province to favor the ban or dispute its efficiency, not knowing the nature of the disease, but one thing is sure, the action of the Board of Health is injurious to some parts of the county or sadly misunderstood by the residents of those parts.

The French and English have about reached a momentous conclusion—the Kaiser caused the war! If this is all the peace conferences has accomplished it might as not have met, because we learned that fact sixteen months ago from our liberty loan speakers.

The Western horses that are being shipped into Ohio County are in many instances, it has been proven, affected with catarrhal fever in a very virulent form. Several of these horses have died and others are affected. Moreover it is scattering to the other horses and the result may be disastrous to the livestock of the county. There should be a veterinary examination of every suspicious animal before it is allowed to be bought by Ohio County farmers.

The critics may disparage and cynics may scoff but the belief in immortality is so strongly rooted and ground into the ethics of the ordinary man that centuries of the sowing of the seeds of disbelief could not remove it. The scoffer may scoff all the days of his life until some little birdlet of his own household takes her flight and then over the bier of the departed loved one, he will say, like Robert Ingersoll, "In the night of death hope sees a star and love hears the flit of a wing."

As 416 1/2 of our contemporaries have said, those who saw fit to tour in Florida this winter had the pleasure of spending their money and left the summerland behind them. After Jack Frost has been using his nippers as he has last week, we imagine there are some changed minds.

There are those that believe in the old redbird sign that spring is near and if so, then it surely is, because the cardinals are becoming plentiful along the country lanes.

Do that spring "shopping" early—order the seeds you will want to sow and the fertilizer to make them grow.

If old man Winter does his worst from now on he will have but a few short days at the best.

The little old log cabin by the lane is giving place to the trim bungalow by the pipe.

About the only dark and cloudy day we have had was Ground-Hog day.

A CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our many friends for the kindness and help rendered in the sickness and death of our precious baby. Also to Dr. Willis for his faithfulness and Dr. Moore and the choir for their service. Also the sweet little girls that acted as palibarrers. Little Frieda would thank you, "friends," if she only could. She would thank Dr. Willis for the many little compliments he would pay her.

ADVANCE NOT GENERAL ONE

Religious Publication Points Out Strong and Deplorable Contrasts Existing in Alaska.

The native Alaskan of today is becoming in some sections, an intelligent and progressive factor in the life of the territory. Recently a daughter of the Hydah tribe made application for United States citizenship, and after examination was pronounced qualified to exercise intelligently the duties of an elector—the first native woman of Alaska to receive citizenship. Her father is a staunch elder of the Hydah Presbyterian church. All through southeastern Alaska, natives are taking up homesteads, organizing villages upon sound civic principles, reading the daily papers, putting telephones and electric lights into their homes—in a word, are proving the value of Christian citizenship.

But there is another side to the picture and the contrast between the unchurched and the Christian Alaskans is disconcerting. Scores of villages in the Bristol Bay region live where no Protestant missionary has ever been, and the one Greek priest who had ministered to the needs of 1,700 people is now dead. The revolution in Russia has cut off the support of Russian missions in Alaska, leaving the spiritual destitution and physical wretchedness of large numbers of these people wholly unrelieved.—The Home Mission Monthly.

HONOR IS GIVEN TO ITALY

Pisa and Venice Proved to Have Sent Explorers to River Niger Four Hundred Years Ago.

The director of the French school in Rome, Monsignor Duchesne, has sent the president of the Royal Italian Geographical society a letter which accompanies a brief note, most interesting to us, regarding the discovery of the route of a journey in central Sudan at the time when the republics of Pisa and Venice had stipulated with the sultan of Maghreb for special treaties in which he conceded to the Italians the right to pass through central Africa on the Niger.

The letter says: "I write to inform you of an interesting discovery made by Charles de la Ronciere, curator of prints in the national library of Paris and author of important books on the French navy. The discovery restores to Italy the honor of having visited and described the African regions of Tuat and the Niger four centuries before the explorations of Rohlf and Chaille, the first a German and the last a Frenchman."

The account given of Tuat in 1447 is signed by an Italian by the name of Antonio Maffione and is directed to the Genoese Giovanni Marfano. He was the first Christian to penetrate to that oasis.—Italian American News Bureau.

What Germans Must Do.

Under the title "Conquest and Kultur," the committee on public information issued a compilation of quotations from German writers and speakers, including the Kaiser himself, to show the Teutonic worship of the war god and greed for world conquest. The pamphlet, compiled by Prof. Wallace Notestein and Elmer E. Stoll of the University of Minnesota, assisted by faculties of their own and other universities, has a foreword by Guy Stanton Ford, saying: "No peace can ever make of Germany a fit partner for a league of honor until the German people have driven out the spirit which inspired these utterances in their name."

Work of Bureau of Standards.

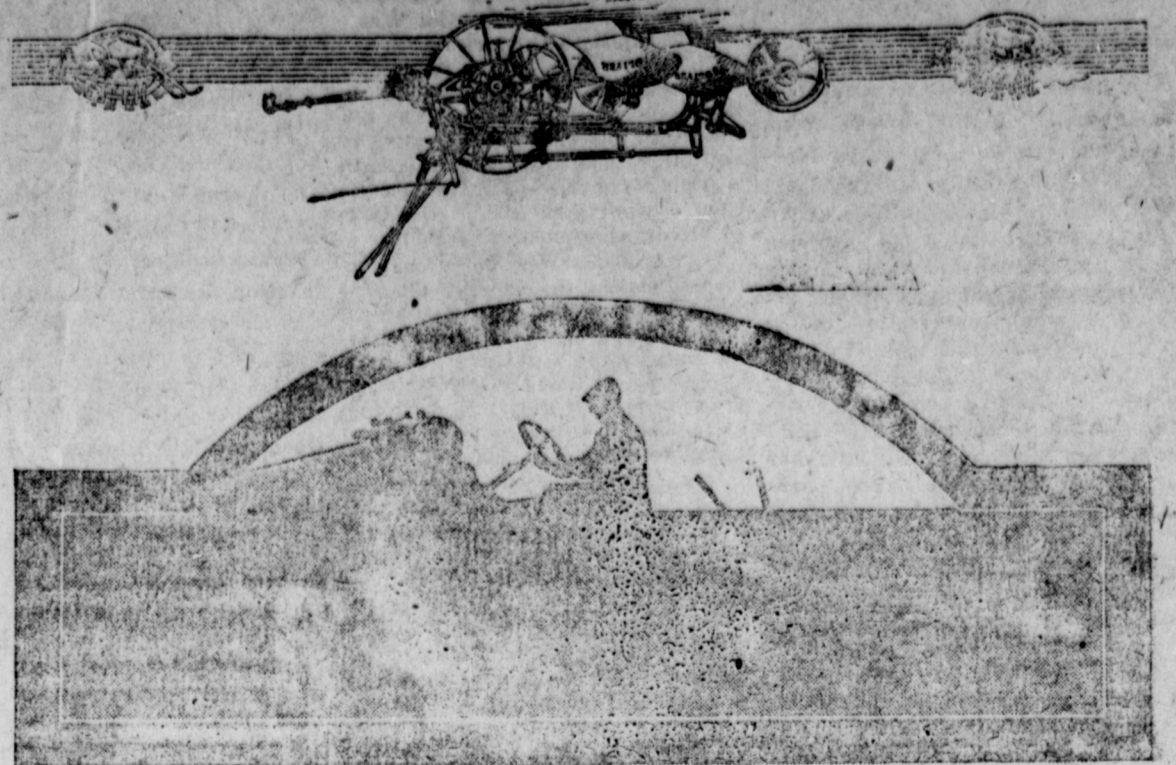

One of the many new undertakings of the bureau of standards is an investigation of magnetic compasses, in behalf of the naval observatory, the joint army and navy board of specifications, and the shipping board. The bureau proposes to develop a standard method of testing compasses and to prepare specifications for the purchase of compasses by the government. A special form of magnetometer has been devised for the determination of magnetic moment and a rotation test for pivot friction is being developed. The bureau expects to test several thousand compasses in the course of the present year.

Did His Part, Anyway.

The day of the peace celebration at Chicago the school children, acting of their own volition, formed a parade and carried out a program, which included singing patriotic songs, after which they took up a collection for the united war work fund. Buddy had kept pace with the older children in everything, singing when they sang, whether the songs were familiar to him or not. When he told about it that evening his mother asked: "What was it you sang?" "Oh, I don't know what we sang," answered Buddy, still enthusiastic over his part in the celebration, "but I sang just the same."

Helped Burn Emperor's Effigy.

During the celebration of victory at Genoa, Italy, a characteristic episode occurred in front of the Garibaldi monument. A group of English sailors surrounded by an immense crowd held a mock trial about the effigy of Emperor Charles of Austria. They condemned him to death and hanged the effigy on a pole, afterward applying the torch. The pole and the effigy were consumed. The Americans and the English took part in all the Italian celebrations with great enthusiasm.

International 8-16—works right—because it's built right!

WELL designed—perfectly built—the International 8-16 Tractor comes to you as a finished form power plant.

For all field work it is efficient—easy to operate—turns in a short radius—plenty of power for two 14-inch bottoms. It will turn from 8 to 10 acres per day—do it at less cost.

For power work you have 16 horse power at the belt pulley. This will operate a separator, silo filler, saw, etc.

Burns kerosene, and has every other modern feature that you want. You'll get years of good service from your International—proving it to be the good investment that other owners have found it.

Plow right with an Oliver Plow

To make a perfect seed bed—that is what you plow for—and that is what you accomplish when you use an Oliver plow. The Oliver tractor plow was designed and is built especially for tractor work. It stands the gaff, and does perfect work in every kind of soil. When you use an Oliver plow you'll understand why it is used so universally and recognized as the best by practically every tractor manufacturer.

Let us show you the International 8-16 tractor and the Oliver plow here at our salesroom.

Mr. Farmer, Look Well to Your Own Interest

What you want is the most dollars for your tobacco. Then why not take your tobacco to the floor that is getting the most money for tobacco? Look us up in the official report in last Sunday's papers and see where WE stand—the general average on Pryor tobacco for the season is $15.01 per hundred.

Our Average is $16.08

Just $1.07 higher than the general average. Not a house in town that beat us. Only one house that matched us even. One house $1.48 under us; one house $1.29 under us; one house $1.08 under us; another house under us.

Our last week sale was the best of all. We sold 520,000 pounds Pryor tobacco and paid the farmers an average of $16.93 for it—the best sale of the season. OUR BURLEY SALES have gone over the top also. We sold Burley from $79.00 per hundred and down and remember our high price Burley and other fancy prices are not bid in by the house for advertising purposes, but every basket we sell is SOLD to some regular legitimate tobacco merchant. DID YOU KNOW that the buyers whom you and we have to depend on for our market appreciate our fair and square methods of doing business, and they are giving us the advantage in a high priced market, and this is why you lose money if you don't get your tobacco on our floor. We are for you first, last and all the time, and always planning day and night to get the most money for your tobacco possible. That's the policy that's winning and filling our big floor with tobacco and keeping us busy continuously. You may depend on getting full, fair weights. Courteous attention to one and all (no favorites) and the best dollar in Owensboro for your tobacco. BRING US THE BALANCE OF YOUR TOBACCO AND BE FRIENDLY WITH YOURSELF.

BE AN OVERCOMER. (By Rev. A. D. Litchfield.)

"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good."—Roman 12:21.

To our neighbors and friends, as well as our patrons we take pleasure in sending this message, which we trust will aid some one in these days when the public service and such like can no longer be held.

The phases of evil are as varied as the scenes in a kaleidoscope. Life in every stage and at every angle is confronted by it.

It is so virile and insidious that it springs spontaneous everywhere and its ghostly form appears to haunt every choosers in this world. Good and evil are ever before us. It comes not only as an objective fact to be dealt with in the open arena of life, but as a subjective state influencing the whole of life's activities. "When I would do good evil is present with me." The whole head sick and the whole heart faint. Evil rankles in the blood, throbs in the brain and out of the heart a whole brood of vile things go forth. It is so subtle that the wisest have been surprised and taken by it, so delusive that the most vigilant have not discovered its presence, so beguiling that the sanest have been inveigled by it, so astute that the shrewdest have fallen a prey, so giant like that the strongest have been easily overcome and so envious that few have ever broken its hold. How many times have communities been shattered by it, homes broken up, lives wrecked, reputations spoiled, characters marred by his lurking foe? Age no less than youth has had its life sucked away by this vampire from the spirit world.

Business, little and big has been poisoned by its awful fangs, until greed and grind are dominant notes. Oppression and disproportionate profits foment strife and unbrotherliness in field and factory alike. Covetousness the root of this giant oppressor, the vital breath of this insatiate monster, the motive power of this omnipresent enemy, the life-blood of all self-indulgence to God and faithless ness to man if it has not already will before the day is done knock at your door. The same diabolical influence will seek to blacken the lips and life of your boy, and to steal the blush from the cheek of your girl, and drop a seed of distrust into the life of wife, sweet-heart and mother. And yet black and beguiling as this enemy is, brazen, impudent and determined, it can be overcome by the good. When good has buckled on the whole armor and has gone forth following the command of him whose life on earth was spent in "going about doing good" she has never returned without being victor. The force of evil are "not Omnipotent, or Omniscent and while they are everywhere and everywhere present they must first get your consent before they can enter or injure your life. The good in order to be a mighty, constructive force must be done. Done in us, done through us and done by us. Not before it can be done by us it must be implanted as a principle within us. It must take root in our hearts, grow up and bear fruit. It is a thing that we must be wholly given to double mindedness will result in instability of life, hence the "One thing I do." It is the goodness of God as manifest in the gift of his Only Begotten Son; in His long allowing; His patient kindness His tender mercy; and in his Fatherly manner toward us that has won our hearts to him. It was the self-sacrificing spirit of the man of Galilee, his agony in the garden, his undying devotion to his own that won for him his place far above all principalities and powers and gave him a name that is above every name: That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father. Retaliation never could have done it, mere arbitrariness never could have done it, only the good which so far transcends the evil as that the one goes up while the other goes down. This agency and this alone is more than a match for evil in its every form and phase. If only the folks who call themselves his friends, who say they share his life and partake of his bounty would engage to do good, good in the ratio of their several ability, what a world of joy and gladness this would be. Verily the wilderness and the solitary place would be glad and the desert blossom as a rose. In these times when nothing is so sacred to undergo the acid test it is a good thing to be settled in our convictions, to have brotherly love, to have an open door for the stranger, to think compassionately of those that are in bonds, to keep the marital relation sweet and pure, and that our manner of life be not covetous; to have a cheerful and contented mind, to pray for the President and the boys Over here, to have faith and all that, but there is one thing yet necessary, "To do good and to communicate forget not with such sacrifice the God is well pleased." In this hour of plague and peril which for some wisely chosen end is upon us when our churches, Sunday schools and prayer-meetings are closed we need to be very careful lest the EVIL of indifference and loose neglectful habits fasten themselves upon us. It need not be so, yea, it must not be so, but in order that it may not be so we must rebuild the Family Altar and thereon morning, noon and night offer that sacrifice of Praise to God. We must nurture the children in the admonitions of our Lord, we must keep our hands clean and our hearts pure, we must have work-a-day religion and a world outlook, and be ready so as if our Lord should come at noon or midnight he would find us watching. How may we overcome? By prayer, reading Gods word, Testimony, by doing unto others as we would have them do unto us. By constantly exercising ourselves unto Godliness, by filling the life so full of the good that there will be no room for the evil. Brethren be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good. Amen.

Forty Five Years of Success
The astonishing Record of PERUNA

Not a cure-all, but a rational remedy for catarrh and all inflammation and congestion of the mucous membranes.

Catarrh attacks the mucous linings, in any organ, in any part of the body. It is not, as some imagine, confined to the nose and throat, although nasal catarrh is the most common form and afflicts many people.

Unchecked catarrh soon breaks down the tissue and destroys the organs or part. Evidence of the ravages of catarrh are all around us. Without desire to frighten anyone, we say: "Guard yourself against catarrh as you would against the direct plague. Fortify your system. Take Peruna."

INSPIRING WORDS FOR THE SICK FROM THOSE WHO KNOW.

A Good Medicine in the Family.
I had a bad case of Catarrh and could get no relief. Peruna cured me. It is a fine medicine. We often use it in the family and find it good.
MRS. GEORGE GATES,
East Lake Station,
Birmingham, Alabama.

PERUNA FOR ALL FORMS OF CATARRH.
Peruna is indicated for all forms of catarrh or catarrhal inflammation and congestion of the mucous linings in any part of organ, such as nose, throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, etc. It is fine for coughs, colds and effects of the grip and an excellent preventive remedy.

If you want health, insist upon having Dr. Hartman's World Famous Peruna Tonic.

TURLEY'S TALK ON WAGONS.

It doesn't pay to buy a CHEAP wagon. They are a poor investment from the standpoint of appearance, durability, value and reputation. It's the part of wisdom to pay little more and get a wagon made of first-class material and skilled workmanship.

Quality is always the first consideration in building WEBER and BAIN Wagons. The result is:—They give satisfaction. 1100 wagons during the last twelve months gives us wagons at a price that will interest you. We have them in all sizes, and can save you money.

Call and see us when in Owensboro, and look our line over. We will have a nice calendar for you.

The Extreme Penalty.
George, the colored porter, was telling about a negro gambling club.
"It shuh is some place, dat is," commented George.
"Any tough colored gamblers ever there?"
"No suh, no tough buds, only nice gen'men."
"Any of the boys ever get rough?"
"Oh, no suh, not much."
"Any ever pull a razor on you?"
"No, not on dis baby."
"If one did, some real tough fellow, what would you do?"
"Tuhn dat man right ovah to de law."
"And supposing that he would cut you all up, just hack you to bits, what would you do then?"
"In dat case dat man wud be bahd frum de club aftah dat!"

THE LAW OF AVERAGES.

In considering the road tax question which is about to be put up to the landowners of Ohio County and the tax payers in general, it is well that they reason from an old and tried law of nature—the law of averages. We do not know enough about the valuation of Ohio County land to give an estimate on the probable average per acre, but we would judge it to be, as a whole and as it stands, about $19 per acre. This may seem rather conservative but we are basing our estimate on the assessment figures. Much land in the county would sell today for $100 and much more would sell for less than $10. So we believe the above estimate is about the average.

In Daviess County, which has much good land and much poor, the average is twice what Ohio County's is. Daviess hasn't as much hill land as Ohio but what it has is just as poor. Taking it all in all there is no reason for the mother earth in Daviess County being worth twice or three times as much as in Ohio County unless we read the answer in IMPROVEMENTS. Daviess County farmers have well improved farms; they have beautiful homes and conveniences of the city right at their doors. Homeseekers are going to pay more for land that is easily accessible to the markets than for land that is fenced off by a barrier of impassable mud three or four months in the year. In the parts of Daviess County where the good roads do not extend land is as cheap as in Ohio. So the answer is ROADS. With Owensboro as a hub they extend out like spokes over the county, broad beautiful boulevards and highways that are always open. Farmers appreciate these roads and pay more for Daviess County lands than for yours. And we don't blame them. Good roads will increase the value of the average from twenty-five to fifty per cent. And the law of averages rarely fails.
